Ralph Tucker, Chairman of the Robert E. Lee Soil and Water Conservation District, on the left, is shown above presenting Mr. and Mrs. E. Carter Martin with a plque in recognition of being selected by the Awards Committee as the most outstanding conservation farmer in the three county conservation district.

The Robert E. Lee Soil and Water Conservation District recognized three area farmers for their outstanding conservation farming programs. In presenting the promotion award, Dr. Franklin Flint, Professor at Randolph Macon College and a Director of the Conservation District, cited the good work of the Study Committee. In addition to providing much assistance to the Dept. of Parks and Beautification and to the Dept. of Recreation, the Committee organized the Friends of Lynchburg Stream Valleys. The Study Committee determined that a new citizens group was needed to work for reducing the encroaching development of the stream valleys. After much hard work and publicity by the Recreation Study Committee, the Friends of Lynchburg Steam Valleys was organized. This group is now an Independent organization and will unite all interested groups and citizens to work for the protection and preservation of Lynchburg Steam Valleys.

Parents Needed!

Make your next child one of ours.

We need parents with lots of love to share, to care for extra special children. Often a child is forced to leave his natural parents until they are financially or physically able to care for him again.

All too frequently, the child is placed in an orphanage, away from the joys a family can bring and the needs a family can fulfill.

Please, we need your help to help our children. Contact the Appomattox County Department of Social Services, telephone 352-7125.
